

Want to Lose 401 Pounds In a Year?

'Fat Girl' Gives You Formula and It's So Simple!

FORT THOMAS, Ky., (AP)—A year ago she was known as Dollie Dimples, "the most beautiful fat girl in show business," and she weighed 555 pounds.

Today, celebrating her 50th birthday at her sister's home here, she weighed in at a trim 154 pounds.

Dollie, who in private life is Mrs. Celesta Geyser of Cincinnati, suffered a heart attack a year ago, and then began the diet which peeled off 401 pounds.

How did she do it?

"It's simple," she told a reporter. "All anyone has to do is diet properly and have will power to stick strictly to the diet."

"No one has to stay fat," she said.

Last year's birthday was a grim one for Dollie.

"Five heart specialists gave me up for dead," she said. "One doctor in Thomaston, Ga., wanted me to get out of his office, for fear I'd die there. At Orlando, Fla., specialists prepared me for the worst."

"My blood pressure was 240 over 132, which is so high it's almost impossible to live. I couldn't lay down because I'd suffocate if I did. I spent two months in the hospital, and came out weighing 385 pounds."

.....

Dollie was in show business 23 years. She had a song and dance routine.

"I'm starting a new life at 50," she said today. "I'm retiring from show business to show women how they can reduce."

Council Gets Bids for New Sewage Screen

Bids for a sewage screen were considered by the Dixon city council in a short and peaceful session last night.

The bid of $2,311 from Inflico, Inc., Chicago, and $2,638 from the Chicago Pump company were ordered filed. Both bids include trade-in of the present screen.

Inflico can make delivery in two or three weeks while the Chicago Pump company can not deliver short of 12 to 16 weeks, according to letters received with the bids.

George Prescott asked council members if it was all right to go ahead improving streets in Prescott's fourth subdivision, now a part of the city.

Commissioner of Streets J. E. Valle said that Prescott's drainage plans including ditches on both sides of street is not acceptable since a heavy rain would fill the ditches and excess water would go elsewhere.

Prescott, Valle and Engineer C. K. Willett will consult to decide on what method should be used in improving the streets in the subdivision.

Grandma Ready For Channel

LONDON, (AP)—Mrs. Betty Cohn, Brooklyn's swimming grandma, flew in from America today to try her secret "sledge-hammer" stroke on the English channel.

Bouncy and talkative in a navy blue costume topped with a yachting cap, 50-year-old Mrs. Cohn told newsmen:

"I swam 18 or 19 miles every day. I don't think the channel will be too difficult."

Seize 23 Slots in Cook County Raids After Crime Group Gripes

CHICAGO—(AP)—State's attorney's police seized 23 slot machines in a series of raids last night and early today in suburban taverns.

The raids followed by two days a Chicago Crime Commission report criticizing both State's Attorney John Boyle and Sheriff John E. Babb, the major law enforcement officers of Cook county. Boyle is a Democrat, Babb a Republican. The commission said both officers were lax in the enforcement of gambling laws.

The state's attorney's police raided taverns in Calumet City, Midlothian, Posen, Dixmoore, Calumet Park and Oak Forest and a gasoline station and a milk store in Stickney township.

Fifteen men were arrested on charges of possession of gambling devices and released on bond of $100 each. They are to appear Aug. 1 in the Homewood sheriff's court before Justice of the Peace Harry Lambert.

In its statement, the Crime Commission, a civic agency, said Boyle had not requested revocation of

Calls Wire Mill Strike 'Unauthorized'

Union Leaders To Confer With Firm Today

USA Membership Plan for Mass Meeting Tonight

A United Steelworkers' spokesman said today that the one-day-old walkout at the National Standard Co. wire mill was "unauthorized" by the union but that attempts would be made to arbitrate differences at a company-union meeting today.

William Lee, Jr., president of the local and who is also district representative for USA, said that a union committee would go into a huddle with company representatives at 1:30 p. m.

He added that the results of the conference would be relayed to the union membership at a mass meeting to be held in the Moose hall an hour after the meeting closes.

Strike Unauthorized

Lee emphasized that the strike was "unauthorized" and that the walkout came "spontaneously" over company efforts to institute a new incentive-pay plan at the factory's weaving mill where wire mesh is manufactured.

The company, meanwhile, issued no further formal statement to add to a vaguely-worded "one given to the press Tuesday afternoon."

No Grievances Filed

Yesterday's announcement by National Standard indicated that the disagreement arose over the institution of the payment of average rate of pay in the weaving mill on July 16 but said "we are not certain that this is the basis for the stoppage, inasmuch as no grievances have been filed, and we will not know definitely until a meeting is held with the union."

Lee discounted reports that the disagreement centered on the increasing of looms-per-worker in the weaving department. The basic issue, he said, was the institution of new incentive-pay rates within the contract period.

The USA's contract with National Standard expires next March. Lee said that approximately 75 per cent of National Standard employees are on an incentive-rate plan.

Dixon Receives Safety Award

THE CITY OF DIXON Tuesday was presented with a plaque by the National Safety council in recognition of the fact that not on single traffic fatality had occurred in the city limits in 1950. Presenting the plaque is Sgt. J. E. Flannagan, Harvard, of the traffic section of the Illinois state police, to Dixon Chief of Police Frank Tyne. Watching the presentation is Sgt. Clarence Seagren. Dixon has maintained an excellent record in preventing fatal accidents. This is the third year without a traffic death. The last fatal accident was Dec. 16, 1947. Frequent was the only other town in this area to receive a similar award this year. In order to compete for the plaque, the city must submit all records of accidents to the National Safety council for inspection.

Aw, Dry Up, Albuquerque, You Ain't Seen Nothin'!

More rain fell in Dixon last week than trickled over the city of Albuquerque, N. M., during 1950.

The local weatherman toted the figures today and made this astounding revelation. In the seven-day period 8.16 inches fell in Dixon. This compares with a total of eight inches in the southwestern city during the entire year.

Meanwhile, local residents were getting a taste of mid-summer temperatures after the torments of last week. The temperatures climbed to 84 at noon today and was still going up.

No Breze

Forecasts had predicted breezes up to 15 miles an hour for today but the wind did not materialize. Downtown Dixon sweltered as a result.

Yesterday's high was 82 at 4 p.m. but the hottest day of the week was Sunday when the mercury climbed to the upper eighties. That sent residents to the parks, pools and golf courses in record numbers. A total of 5,000 found their way to Lowell park.

Some relief from the heat appears in sight. The weatherman says that the mercury will go only to 80 tomorrow and then cool to

Predict Normal Temperatures in Next Thirty Days

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Temperatures averaging above seasonal normals over the section west of the Mississippi during the next 30 days were predicted yesterday by the weather bureau.

East of the Mississippi, temperatures are expected to average near or slightly below normal.

Greatest departures from the normal are expected over the central Rock Mountain states and west-central Great Plains.

The bureau predicted substantially drier weather over the Central plains, including the flood areas, with precipitation for the 30-day period not exceeding seasonal normals.

Showers west of the continental divide are expected to relieve conditions bordering on drought in many areas. In the northern third of the country, greater than normal rains are expected. Near normal rainfall is indicated in all other areas.

No Fatalities On Battlefront

WASHINGTON, (AP)—No U.S. soldier was killed in Korea in the 24 hours ending at 5 p.m. Korean time yesterday—the first day without a combat death since the first American was killed July 7, 1950.

Announcing this yesterday, the army said a small number of soldiers were wounded. Combat deaths by direct enemy action have averaged more than 30 daily during the first year of fighting in Korea.

Practically none of the damaged firms carried flood insurance.

Missouri Cities Raise Dikes To Head Off Flood Onslaught

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(AP)—Emergency crews worked feverishly today to bulwark dikes and check rising water that already has caused a loss of near $1,000,000 to factories and rail yards in the immediate vicinity.

Four hundred residents of West Alton, Mo., and vicinity ignored warnings to evacuate their low-lying homes as army engineers, coast guardsmen and other workers abandoned efforts to strengthen dikes to the point where they could hold back the torrents.

As St. Louis was bracing for the flood, already the nation's costliest, President Truman made a first hand aerial survey of conditions, and the federal government rushed efforts to rehabilitate vast areas of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

TEHRAN, IRAN, (AP)—Iranian security officials today asked the U.S. "embassy" to ban advance announcements of movements of Special Envoy W. Averell Harriman to this uneasy city, because of the possibility of a new bloody Communist demonstration.

Newspapers said the death toll has risen to 20 persons with 300 injured in Sunday's anti-Harriman demonstration, staged on the arrival of President Truman's special ambassador. He was sent to try to work out a solution to the bitter British-Iranian oil dispute.

Three red painted radio-equipped jeeps filled with policemen have been escorting Harriman on visits to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and other Iranian officials. Harriman planned to meet members of the Iranian senate later today.

Security officials broadcast a warning that mass meetings have been prohibited under martial law. Police announced 88 persons have been arrested in a roundup of leftist elements since the Sunday riots.

Agreement on Other Major Points Made

Troop Withdrawal Believed Block to Agenda Completion

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — Allied and Red envoys agreed today on two points of the cease-fire agenda but a dispute over "at least one major point" is blocking the start of actual Korean war armistice negotiations.

The United Nations announced this tonight after negotiators returned from their longest session this week. It was the first report of agreement on any part of the agenda.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, head of the U.N. cease-fire team, accepted Communist wording for two agenda items at the close of Tuesday's conference, the announcement said.

When he did so, "the entire Communist delegation seemed to show gratification, perhaps mixed with a certain element of relief," said Brig. Gen. William Nuckolls of the U.S. air force. Nuckolls attended the session in Kaesong.

Appreciate Viewpoint

And when Admiral Joy presented the allied view on the major unresolved question, Nuckolls said, the two "Chinese members of the Communist delegation nodded and appeared to appreciate the United Nations viewpoint."

Neither Nuckolls nor the formal headquarters announcement disclosed the points agreed upon in the sixth day of conferences. Nor did they say what was the major stumbling block to reaching a "mutually acceptable agenda."

The U.N. communiqué said: "At least one major issue remained unresolved when the conference adjourned for the night."

"Agreement on the key point is essential to the successful completion of the first phase of the negotiation."

Speculate Withdrawal Observers speculated that the key question was whether to discuss withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea. The Communists want this on the agenda. The United Nations negotiators do not.

Taffy, Cocker Spaniel, Still Alive, Report

Taffy is still alive despite testimony in county court Monday. Taffy is the faun-colored cocker spaniel owned by the Charles Hazelwood family, 1114 Woodlawn av.

A teen-age youth, Kenneth Spielman, 19, of 717 Madison av., driving on the wrong side of the street at an estimated 60 miles an hour, struck Taffy and raced on without stopping Saturday evening.

Spielman was arrested after another motorist chased him down. He was granted one-year's probation, fined $100 and ordered not to drive a car during the probation period. In court it was reported that Taffy was killed.

The dog, a children's pet, was injured severely and is under treatment by a veterinarian. The dog's hip was knocked out of place and it sustained internal injuries.

According to Mrs. Hazelwood, her son, Donnie, 3, narrowly escaped being run down by Spielman when he struck the dog in front of their home on Woodlawn avenue.

Dublin's Famed Abbey Theater Destroyed by Fire Early Today

DUBLIN, Ireland—(AP)—The Abbey theater—birthplace of Irish revolutionary drama and for nearly half a century training ground for some of the world's greatest stage stars—burned to the ground early today.

The main building was gutted by a fierce blaze that defied the efforts of five brigades of firemen to save the historic landmark in the heart of Dublin.

A survey revealed that the most damage was done to the stage, wings and backstage parts of the building, which are completely gone.

The rest of the building is blackened and blistered but still standing.

The cast of Sean O'Casey's "The Plough and the Stars," showing at the Abbey this week, managed to carry to safety valuable paintings and art objects from the burning structure.

The theater was the home of the famed Abbey Players, whose graduates have gone on to triumphs on the stages of London and New York and the film sets of Hollywood.

Barry Fitzgerald, who achieved his greatest stage success in "The Plough and the Stars," began his career there.

The theater, which had a capacity of only about 150, was once the city morgue. It was founded in 1904.

Irish critic and author George Russell and William Butler Yeats, poet and dramatist, were leading figures in the Abbey movement.

The Free State government recognized the Abbey as a national theater and allowed it an annual grant.

Only Occasional Violence Marks History of Cicero

BY WILLIAM J. CONWAY
CICERO, Ill., (AP) — Cicero seldom lands on page one—but, when it does, it's with a bang.

The town at the western edge of Chicago goes about its business for years in the obscuring shadow of its big urban neighbor. Then it is seized by a spasm of violence, and it's in the bright light of national attention.

The spotlight swung back to Cicero last week. Harvey E. Clark, a Negro bus driver who says he didn't know that no Negroes lived in the community, tried to move into an apartment there.

A series of disorders by rock-heaving mobs erupted into a riot. National guard troops and police have put an end to the demonstrations, but they're still patrolling the battered apartment building.

Violence in '25
News of the sensational sort began to come out of Cicero in 1925. "Scarface Al" Capone made it the capital of his whiskey-women-and-gambling empire.

Capone established his G.H.Q. in the Hawthorne Arms hotel. Early one morning three auto loads of gunners raked the place with machine gun fire. The number of bullets was estimated, in round numbers, at 1,000. None of them hit Capone.

Citizens heard similar sound effects on other occasions. But none had a more shocking impact on law-abiding citizens than the sputtering blast that issued from a gun barrel on the night of April 27, 1926.

This was the scene:
Three men were on the sidewalk in front of the Pony Inn. A touring car rolled up. A Tommy gun was thrust through the curtains. It let go with a spray of slugs. The three human targets were killed.

Prosecutor Felled
One of them was Jimmy Doherty, a beer runner. Another was Thomas "Red" Duffy, a minor Chicago politician. The third victim was Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggin.

McSwiggin was known as "The Hanging Prosecutor" because of his success in obtaining convictions in murder trials. His death touched off a resounding hue and cry. The question—"Who killed McSwiggin and why?"—was raised. The answer never has been written in the official records.

There has been little more violent than occasional political squabbles in Cicero from the time Al Capone moved back to Chicago until Harvey Clark tried to move into Cicero.

Cicero's history and statistics are pretty much in the normal groove.
The town was incorporated in 1867. The name was suggested by an early settler who had migrated from Cicero, N.Y. The community for years was a model of propriety. (An ordinance of 1883 made it illegal to "display the undergarments of females in store windows.")

Now Has 70,000
Cicero now has a population of 70,000, a gain of some 5,000 in the past decade. Twenty-seven nationalities are represented. The largest groups are of Czech (about 58 per cent) and Polish (about 22 per cent) extraction.

Most of the citizens own their homes. A high percentage of them are skilled craftsmen. The town includes 115 factories and 21 churches.

The townsfolk have a reputation for thrift. This attribute may explain, as well as anything, why Al Capone's brother, Ralph, quit operating a Cicero night club.

There is another statistic that may be significant. If you run down the list of 84 men, and youths who were arrested as a result of last Thursday night's riot, you will find: 19 live in Cicero. The others live in Chicago (29) and other communities.

Five babies are born every minute in the United States.

Sen. Paul Douglas Has Knack Of Getting in Truman's Hair

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, (AP) — This town rumbled for months with reports that President Truman was getting that ice-cold, feeling to ward Senator Paul H. Douglas, the 59-year old Democrat from Illinois.

Now it's out in the open. The president has given a political slap to Douglas, who has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate himself in 1952 or vice presidential running mate for Mr. Truman.

The slapping occurred without a harsh word spoken. Mr. Truman did it by ignoring two of the three men Douglas had suggested to fill federal judgeships open in Illinois.

Unusual Thing
Douglas made his three recommendations last January. Last week Mr. Truman okayed only one of them and recommended two others of his own choosing to the Senate for approval, an unusual thing for a president to do to a Senator from his own party.

If Douglas puts up a fight against the Truman selections, the Senate may turn them down. It's not sure he will, although that won't be because Douglas lacks aggressiveness.

The tall Douglas, who has a crop of white hair, enlisted as a private in the marines when he was 50, rose to be a lieutenant colonel, fought in the Pacific, and carries around with him a hand wrecked by wounds.

Trained Economist
And, although the Senate is a great place for economy talk, Douglas is one of the few trained economists who took a seat there. He was a professor of economics for years.

Instead of taking a quiet back seat for a year or so, as many freshmen Senators do, Douglas pitched right into the Senate's work as soon as he got there in 1949.

He helped lead the fight for the administration's low-cost housing program that year. He argued for the administration's civil rights program. And he has supported Mr. Truman in most matters.

The real cause of the split between him and the White House may not be known. But he has done some things which, when added together, may have irritated the president, who likes his Democrats to follow the party line.

When Mr. Truman wanted the presidential nomination in 1948, quite a few members of his party took a dim view of his chances. Douglas said he thought General Eisenhower would be a good candidate.

In his first year here Douglas astonished and antagonized, at least temporarily, Senators of both parties by fighting to cut down government spending on rivers and harbors back in the Senators' home states.

He made the same fight the following year, and then branched out, wanting to cut down money for some parts of the Truman administration's program which the administration didn't want cut.

This year—just about the time he was sending his three judgeship candidates to the White House—the troops-for-Europe debate was starting.

Former President Hoover didn't want to send any more. Senator Taft, Ohio Republican, wanted to limit the number which could be sent or send them on a quota basis—one American division for every nine or so European.

Suggests Compromise
Right in the middle of it, when the administration seemed confident of winning the fight, as it eventually did, more or less, Douglas suggested a compromise. He thought Congress should limit the troops. He later changed his mind, saying his idea was impractical.

At the same time Douglas was mixed up in something which really displeased Mr. Truman. Douglas was a member of a Senate committee which had been investigating RFC, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Blasting RFC, the committee issued a report naming one of Mr. Truman's White House aides as part of a group which "exercised influence" on RFC loans. Mr. Truman called the report asinine. Then the committee really went to work on RFC. In the end, Mr. Truman shook it up.

More recently Douglas said he thought Secretary of State Acheson should be let out, a very sore subject with Mr. Truman who has repeatedly defended Acheson against the demands of Republicans that Acheson be fired.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Boeing Airplane Company said today it has just delivered the first production airplane of a new multi-purpose C-97 freighter series to the air force in Seattle.

The company said in a statement the 72-ton plane is the first production model designed to operate—with a changeover requiring only a few hours—as a tanker, troop transport, cargo carrier and hospital plane.

Boeing said the new craft, with tanker equipment removed, can carry 134 equipped troops or 79 litter patients with attendants.

Nachusa 4-H Club Makes Plans for Ice Cream Social

NACHUSA—The Nachusa Ever-Readies met Tuesday afternoon July 10, at the school.

Two songs were sung by the group and Charlotte Bates gave a talk on "Proper Care of Scissors." Alice Krahenbuhl gave a demonstration on making chocolate chip cookies.

The group decided to hold an ice cream social August 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the school. The next meeting will be held at the home of Lorraine Hockman on July 24 at 2 p.m. Refreshments were served by Nancy Karlson and Shirley and Mary Lou Bain.

Achievement Day
The Nachusa Ever-Readies held their achievement day program Wednesday evening at the school. A scramble supper was held preceding the program. The 4-H girls gave their pledge.

"I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover" was sung by the group. A play, "Better Safe Than Sorry" was presented. Included in the cast were Alice Krahenbuhl, Winifred White, June Shippert, Helen Thomas and Margaret Middleton. A trio, Elizabeth Herbst, Donna Gonnerman and Nancy Karlson played "Le Feciret" and Beverly Reglin gave a tap dance. Gloria Allen played an accordion solo. Lorraine Hockman gave a demonstration on variation of sugar cookies.

Beverly Reglin did a dance routine. Charlotte Bates gave a talk on "The Proper Care of Scissors" while Donna Gonnerman and Helen Thomas gave a team demonstration on making and packing a picnic basket.

A dress review including all the girls who took sewing was given. Helen Thomas, Gloria Allen, Donna Gonnerman and Margaret Middleton modeled dresses. Charlotte Bates, June Shippert and Elizabeth Herbst modeled skirts and scarves. Ruth Ann Smith twirled her baton. All the girls taking foods exhibited their projects.

"America" was sung. Alice Krahenbuhl was chosen to take her demonstration to Amboy in August by the judges. The leader of the Nachusa Ever-Readies is Mrs. Marcus Gonnerman.

A London curiosity shop exhibited a teapot with three spouts, permitting the pouring of three cups of tea at one time.

Governor Vetbes Bill to Publish Tax Delinquents

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP)—A bill to require publication of downstate delinquent personal property tax lists has been vetoed by Gov. Stevenson.

In a statement yesterday, the governor said Atty. Gen. Ivan Elliott found the bill violating the constitution because it did not include Cook county. He said it "creates an artificial classification of delinquent personal property taxpayers based upon population."

Raise School Minimum
Stevenson signed a bill to raise minimum annual salaries of public school teachers, starting July 1, next year. The present flat $1,200 guarantee is replaced by this schedule:

Teachers with up to 60 semester hours of college training, $1,500; 60-89 hours, $2,000; 90-119 hours, $2,200; 120 hours and a bachelor's degree, $2,400, and 150 hours and a master's degree, $2,600.

The governor also signed bills: Providing that persons convicted of bribery in sporting events be both imprisoned one to five years and fined $1,000 to $5,000. The old law permitted either fine or imprisonment.

Appropriating $20,000 to a legislative commission to visit and examine state institutions.

Defines "Private Eyes"
Permitting courts to order counties to pay for the care of dependent children not otherwise paid for.

Appropriating $24,850 for expenses of the Illinois-Missouri bi-state development agency for two years.

Defining "private detective business" to include firms offering for hire watchmen for residential and business areas.

Home Mortgage Rises in U. S. To 46 Billion

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The outstanding home mortgage debt in the nation reached $46,900,000,000 at the end of last year after an unbroken rise since 1944, the Home Loan Bank board said today.

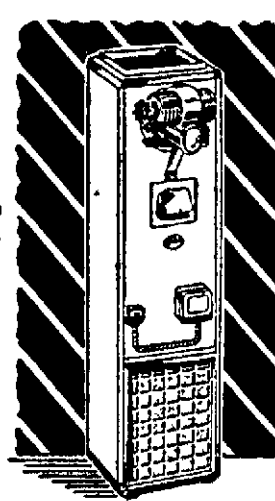

The board said that in 1950 home mortgage debt increased $7,800,000,000, which it called the biggest annual rise on record, nearly triple the average for 1933 through 1941 and double that of 1949.

This one says You've Arrived

HERE pictured is an automobile that may well be the fulfillment of any man's dream of a fine motorcar.

For you've a right to expect, when you pay a fine-car price, that your money will buy more distinction; more comfort, more performance than are to be found in vehicles of lesser worth.

So mark well the things that a ROADMASTER offers.

No other car on the American scene has a prouder bearing.

No other automobile has more spacious dimensions, more luxurious comfort, or finer appointments.

No other car has a ride more serenely smooth on curve or straightaway, highway or byway.

And no other car, at ROADMASTER'S price or above, has Dynaflo, and the supreme command of every traffic condition which it provides.

So you, at the wheel of Buick's biggest and best, have a right to feel distinguished.

But there's a joy of possession which goes deeper than visible things.

There's the feel of a power plant as brilliantly eager as this great car's valve-in-head Fireball Engine—and the satisfying companionship of a brawny traveler instantly responsive to your every wish.

And there's one thing more, which only ROADMASTER can give you in such generous measure. That is the pride of a wise investment, based on the fact that this car stands alone in price per pound, among fine cars similarly equipped.

So why not take that very important first step—and come in and see us soon?

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

There is no such thing as an inevitable war. If war comes it will be from failure of human wisdom.—Bonar Law.

Widespread Reports Question Reliability of Spain's Army

U. S. military men long have been represented as wanting Spain drawn into the Western orbit for strategic reasons. With the forbidding Pyrenees guarding its border, with wide stretches of flat plateau and plain, it is rated highly, both as a defensive bastion and a staging area, particularly for air operations.

But up to now, political factors have outweighed military considerations. Spain's Premier Franco, a Fascist dictator, is bitterly disapproved by moderate and liberal elements who are in command of other Western European governments. Out of deference to their shaky position, the United States has not insisted on tighter ties with Franco. Franco's friends in congress, especially men like Senator McCarran of Nevada, deplore this situation. They argue that a valuable potential ally against communism is in effect being snubbed.

The contention is that not only Spain's geography but its 500,000-man army ought to be thrown into the balance on the Western side.

Probably no one will deny the strategic worth of Spain's geographical features. But new evidence coming to light in recent months suggests that Franco's army might prove a very doubtful advantage.

First Leon Dennen, NEA correspondent in Europe, and now C. L. Sulzberger of the New York Times, reported that a widespread movement against the Franco regime is developing in Spain.

According to their accounts, numerous Spanish generals are cooperating with this movement. It is said to be headed by a General Aranda, a now inactive commander who once was a Franco military hero for his exploits in the Spanish civil war.

Irving Brown, an A. F. of L. representative in Europe, sent a confidential report to his Washington headquarters on the anti-Franco activity.

It was his judgment that the Spanish army is not united. The anti-Franco generals command large areas of Spain, and raise serious doubts about Franco's ability to control those sectors if a showdown should come.

Adds Brown in his report:

"In the event of war, the people of Spain will not support Franco and will use any arms they can get, including the arms the Soviet Union may parachute to them, against Franco. In other words, Franco is not even a good military asset, let alone a political one.

Certainly Brown's report is not the final word on the political and military condition of Spain. But it fits in with earlier reports. And there is no question that a broad anti-Franco movement embracing elements of the army is a reality.

This does not mean that U. S. military thinkers must abandon the idea that Spain may have a useful role in the Western defense scheme. But it does indicate that there ought to be a careful revaluing of Spain's potentialities in the light of 1951 facts.

Furthermore, there is enough substance in these accounts to give some pause to those lawmakers who rise to their feet and shout for Franco every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

HOLLYWOOD, (NEA) — Guys and Dolls: I haven't had a clue as to what some of the profile kings his age are going to do, but Lyle Talbot has thrown in the towel as a heart-flutterer.

Lyle, who was bussing Loretta Young and Barbara Stanwyck not too many years ago, is now listing himself: Character actor.

"You can't go on forever doing leads," he told us. "Being a character actor is better. You don't have to watch your waistline. You don't have to worry about whether you're a handsome guy or not. What a relief."

What does Lyle think of his movie brothers who still insist on being dashing and irresistible around the 50-year mark?

"They're foolish," he grinned. "Audiences aren't going to continue to accept them."

Marie Windsor's got a word for glamour pee-wees who keep hoping that they'll grow an extra inch or two.

The word is "Don't," and Marie uttered it in the set of her new film, "East is East."

The top of Marie's head hits the 5 foot, 7½ inch mark on the measuring stick and she wants it known that her height "has been a handicap to my career all along."

Profile boys built up with elevator heels take one look at Marie's long frame and yell for somebody the size of Mary Jane Saunders—"and that," says Marie, "eliminates 25 per cent of my chance for good roles."

But what puzzles her most is that her first two picture breaks were with John Garfield and George Raft, who aren't Paul Bunyans by any stretch of the camera lens.

"I didn't have a bit of trouble," sniffed Marie. "My woes started after that. The whole thing is very frustrating."

FIGHTING GAL

Audrey Totter's holding up her own hand and shouting, "The WINNAH!"

And the producers and casting directors who stuck Audrey in gun moll parts are taking the count.

"It took me a year to fight it out," Audrey smiled happily. "Once you get that gun put in your hand, it stays there."

She's on the side of J. Edgar Hoover in Lippert's "FBI Girl" now and she returns to MGM for a whack at a heroine without homelife in her heart in "County Line." And she'll be a wise-cracking secretary in a comedy radio series, "Meet Millie," this summer.

Thelma Ritter spikes the rumor that she's going to yelp out loud if she's handed anything less than big, juicy picture plums from now on. The guessers have Thelma all wrong.

"This star business," she snorted. "Who asked for that?"

Thelma will hop from pictures tailored to her size to second-fiddle roles and wants it known that "I don't want to force my luck."

"I like the brilliant short parts like Birdie in 'Al About Eve,'" grinned the veteran stock company actress who once wrote finish to her career. "All the gravy and no responsibility—that's the way I like it."

GOOD LOOKERS

A question that brings the blush to the face of opera baritone Robert Merrill, in Hollywood for a movie career:

"Aren't you glad to be around slick chicks like Dinah Shore and Adele Jergens after singing with those broad-beamed, 200-pound opera lasses?"

His answer: "Most women in opera today aren't like that. Look at Patrice Munsel, Blanche Thebom, Dorothy Kirsten, Roberta Peters and Rise Stevens. They're beautiful. It's mostly the Wagnerian opera stars that are—er—buxom and stout."

Johnny Indrisano, ex-pug, after working out the punch-throwing choreography for Denise Dancel in a western:

"I taught Bergman how to box for 'The Belles of St. Mary's,' and showed Shelley Winters and Marlene Dietrich how to throw punches."

"They're cream puffs compared to Denise. You should see her on the punching bag. She's as strong as a man. You should feel her arms."

Fox may bill Michael O'Shea, who's usually listed over the title, under Thelma Ritter and Jeanne Crain in the big comeback stunt in "The Marriage Broker," but he's not worried about it.

"Who reads billing outside of Hollywood?" he shrugged. "The thing to do is to get in and do a good job and forget about billing. Some actors I know have let themselves be billed above Ethel Barrymore. If anybody ever billed me over Ethel Barrymore I'd be amazed."

Jacobby on Bridge
Play Hand Before You Boast

By OSWALD JACOBY

The perfect bridge player never crow about his fine plays. The rest of us poor human beings do lots of crowing, but it's only good sense to wait until the end of a hand to pat yourself on the back. West learned this lesson the hard way in today's hand.

West opened the five of spades, and that suit was continued until South had to take his ace on the third round. South then led the three of clubs, intending to finesse dummy's nine.

If South had been permitted to make this play everything would have been fine for him. The finesse would lose, of course, but dummy would be ready to win four club tricks. Those would be enough for game when added to South's five top cards in the other suits.

As it happened, South was not allowed to finesse the nine of clubs. West very correctly put up his jack of clubs as soon as South led the suit.

Now South was on the horns of a dilemma. If he let West hold the trick, the rest of the spades would be taken to set the contract. If he won the first club trick in dummy, the low clubs would be worthless unless the suit luckily happened to break 3-3.

Declarer thoughtfully won the trick in dummy with the queen of clubs and cashed the ace of clubs to see if the ten would fall. He was about to cash the king of clubs also when West spoke up.

"Wotta play, wotta man," chorled West. "If I'd played the low club first you'd have had four club tricks. Now you've got only three."

"You don't say," South commented quietly. He instantly changed his mind about leading the king of clubs. Instead he cashed the four top cards in the red suits.

When West dropped the jack of hearts, South guessed the distribution.

At this point East could cash his remaining heart but then had to lead a club up to dummy's king-nine. Hence declarer managed to fulfill his contract by winning four club tricks.

RUTH MILLETT

It's Still a Smart Idea For Girl to Heed Parents

Is a girl of 18 who has just finished high school old enough to know what is best for her? Or should she listen to her parents' advice when the question is as important as marriage?

I have a letter from a girl whose parents have always planned for her to go through college. But she has fallen in love with a boy of 20 and wants to marry him this summer. Her letter ends:

"I know what I want. What's the use of my going to college when I'm going to marry Bill some day, anyhow? Besides, if I go away to school he might find someone else."

Well, let's take those remarks in order. You know what you want, you say. Sure, you know what you want right now. You want to marry Bill. Because at 18 Bill looks like the most wonderful man in the world. But that doesn't mean that given a few more years of education, of more dating experience, and more of the maturity that comes with each passing year you might not find someone who would be more nearly your ideal at age 25 or 30.

What is the use of going to college? For one thing, an education is a great privilege. Your parents are willing to give it to you and you should think a long time before turning it down. You wouldn't turn down a convertible if they offered you that as a gift, would you? Well, a college education is a much more important gift and it is one that you can keep a lifetime.

Yes, if you go away to school he might find someone else. But if he should wouldn't that indicate that his love wasn't worth your sacrificing your chance at an education?

Eighteen is pretty young to be sure that you know what is best for you for life.

At least make a compromise with your parents. Agree to go away to college for one year, and then see how you and Bill feel about marriage. You won't be doing Bill any injustice. After all, 20 is pretty young to be taking on the responsibility of a wife.

SO THEY SAY

You have to study this subject (bill on whether manufacturers should absorb freight charges) hard for six months before you can understand it, and then it's so complicated, you can't explain it.

—Sen. Russell B. Long (D., La.).

The young person today sees... that the things that separate men from one another are less important than the things they have in common.

—Thornton Wilder, author.

The business of the schools is not to break up the habits of young people of reading confessions, glamorized movie magazines, comic books... and the like, but rather to open new doors.

—Wallace R. Murray, speech educator, San Jose College.

You may be wondering what effect a truce in Korea will have upon our defense mobilization program. The answer is it will have no effect.

—Charles E. Wilson, mobilization director.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

July 17, 1951
Dixon, Ill.

Dear Sir:

The Palmer School of Chiropractic is recognized in every state in these United States where chiropractic is licensed, except Illinois. The complete monopoly in this state permits no more than 12 to be licensed in Illinois annually.

Men trained under the G. I. bill continually passes a rigid basic science examination in other progressive states but are not even permitted to write the examination in Illinois.

Only four chiropractic colleges out of 21 are recognized in Illinois. The Palmer School of Chiropractic is the world's largest chiropractic college, valued at over five million dollars, and is thoroughly recognized in the United Kingdom, in Canada, in England and throughout most of the world. The chiropractic profession is the only one that does not have its own board of examiners but must be examined by a competitive science in the state of Illinois.

For over 25 years the Veterans' Bureau, the State Board of Rehabilitation, the labor unions and many other groups have tried to get an equitable law passed that would give equality of opportunity to the science of chiropractic but the forces of complete monopoly in the field of healing have prevented this.

Many a veteran has completely qualified himself and has been duly licensed by several progressive states only to be outlawed in Illinois.

Three of the four chiropractic colleges that are recognized in this state are among the very smallest in the profession and one of them was originally founded by Dr. Schultze, M. D.

Dr. S. C. Bend.

Pegler Relates Red Background of Drew Pearson and Associates

(Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK, July 17—Drew Pearson "released" as his "column" for July 12 a statement that although he employed a Communist as one of his reporters he fired this man some time after he became convinced that he was a member of the party. He did not fire this treacherous person at once nor did he ever expose him on his own initiative.

Senator Joe McCarthy, of Wisconsin, has discussed on the senate floor and placed in the Congressional Record a long, detailed series of accusations against Pearson on the subject of Communism and pro-Communist propaganda.

Although Pearson habitually tosses out sly intimations that he knows what goes on "behind closed doors" and even relates verbatim quotes of unrecorded, spontaneous, private conversations, he now claims that Andrew Older, his own reporter, concealed from him his membership in the Communist party in Washington, D. C.

Older was exposed as a Communist by the testimony of Mrs. Mary Markward, an undercover agent of the FBI who joined the party and was a spy within its ranks for seven years.

Long ago the fact was exposed that David Karr, a "leg-man" employed by Pearson both as a reporter and as a torpedo to deliver threats against individuals, had been employed by the Daily Worker, the official organ of the party. Karr claimed that this did not necessarily mean that he was a member, but Howard Rushmore, who was a member at the same time and later turned against the party, said Karr was a familiar and welcome person in this secretive Soviet citadel in New York. Rushmore said the custom was to exclude non-Communists. Karr is an alias. Karr's wife was placed in the White House as "representative" of a Greek language paper, although she did not write Greek. Her assignment was terminated by General Harry Vaughan at the request of President Truman.

The late Charles Ross, President Truman's secretary, told Vaughan and me that when Vaughan spoiled a scheme by Pearson to send a secret agent to Yugoslavia, then an iron curtain country, Karr personally called on Ross and warned him that unless this agent got a visa Pearson would "blast" Vaughan on his radio broadcast. Vaughan did not relent and was duly "blasted." Later, Pearson lost his sponsor, Adam Hais. This was his second reverse. The Lee Hat Company of Danbury, Conn., earlier took "alarm at Pearson's shocking lies and other propaganda and dropped him. Recently, Pearson has been picked up by a manufacturer of a laxative, his second sponsor in this special commerce.

Pearson's pro-Russian propaganda includes an immediate, aggressive attack on the notorious Amerasia espionage case to belittle it. The Amerasia case was actually the key to the vast conspiracy in the state department and the pentagon to deliver China to Soviet Russia. Pearson described the Chinese Communists, who have been killing Americans in Korea, as harmless "agrarians." This was the established Communist line published in many documents intended to establish a Soviet Orient.

In the early phase of the Alger Hiss case, A. A. Berle, a minor secretary in the department of state, stated that there was a strong pro-Soviet faction in the state department which included Hiss and Dean Acheson. He also said there were "leaks" of secret information which showed up in Pearson's "column." He said one of Pearson's reporters, who sometimes work like private detectives contrary to the general custom of reputable newspapermen, was "pretty intimate in that office." Whether this "leg-man" was Andrew Older or Karr, Berle did not say.

These "leaks" were "reason for caution," Berle said.

"What we did do," he said, "was to see that the ultra-secret intelligence, the intercepted foreign codes, never went outside my own safe."

Hiss, or anyone else," he said, "could give leaks to Washington columnists. During that period, Hiss was all for cooperation with Russia."

The time referred to was the fall of 1944 when victory was assured and "intelligence reports indicated a very aggressive" policy in Soviet Russia, "not at all in line with the kind of cooperation everyone was hoping for."

When Andrew Older died on Oct. 8, 1950, the Washington Post, the political voice of the Frankfurter group, ran the story on page one of the second section, indicating that, in the opinion of the Post, he was an important and worthy fellow.

"He was employed by columnist Drew Pearson from 1944 to 1947," the Post story said.

The Post published Pearson's "column." When the list of Communists named by Mrs. Markward was published in the Post, Older and his wife, Isabel, were named, but the Post gave no further information about Older.

The city editor of the Post, Ben Gilbert, was a member of the Young Communist league when he was a student at the college of the City of New York. This was a Communist front and auxiliary, but Gilbert says he was not actually a Communist. The files of the Post contained identifying matter on Older and, of course, he was personally remembered as a Pearson operative feeding stuff to Pearson, who then planted his propaganda in the Post and other willing or innocent media of expression. In the expose story the Post merely mentioned Older's name.

Pearson's excuse, published in the Post several days later, would have it that Older worked only "part-time for me." Pearson presently grew suspicious and consulted J. Edgar Hoover, who told him Older was a member of the party.

The FBI is forbidden by law to reveal such information to unauthorized persons. Pearson still kept Older on the job for an unspecified time. He has never yet severed his connection with David Karr or repudiated him.

Pearson closed his excuse with an apology for traitorism similar to the one which the Washington Post published in extenuation of the historic treason of Alger Hiss.

Older was "one of those unfortunate youngsters" with all the advantages of higher education and soft living who nevertheless couldn't resist the temptation to betray their country.

The Doctor Says:

Wise Mother Nature Gives Women Rest in Later Years

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

A constant stream of letters comes in from women who are concerned about the change of life. They contain a great variety of questions all of which are impossible to answer in a single column. One from A. M. D., however, raises several subjects which can serve as a basis for discussion.

Mrs. D. says: "Would numbness in the fingers and arms be caused solely by a nerve condition due to the menopause? It occurs at night and is sometimes my thumb and index finger and at other times the little finger and outside of my arm."

"What do all the Indian and poor Chinese women do for medication during the menopause? I always thought this was a natural physiological change and would require no medication except, for the neurotic."

True, the menopause is a natural physiological process. Nature in her wisdom has decided that the women should not go on being mothers all through life. Few would quarrel with Nature on this score.

The "change" or menopause, therefore, is a stage of life in which a woman passes from the ability to reproduce and gradually becomes unable to have children. This stage usually lasts several years and is accompanied by slow changes in physiology, some of which are obvious and some of which are not.

During the period of change there is a gradual decrease in the secretion of certain hormones. Sometimes, but by no means always, this produces some peculiar sensations such as sudden feelings of heat or cold commonly described as hot flashes.

Other peculiar manifestations may develop and these are often exaggerated by giving them too much attention. However, there is no law which prevents other ailments from developing at this time and such nerve symptoms as those described by Mrs. D. might well have an entirely different origin.

WE'RE LUCKY

Primitive people such as those mentioned in the letter don't have the opportunity of getting pills or injections so they go through the change without them. Perhaps they have symptoms just as often and just as severely but perhaps, too, they have less time to think and worry about them.

Undoubtedly appropriate hormone treatment brings relief to some for a while, but this stage would be passed through just the same whether they had such help or not.

Amboy Legion Auxiliary Has Tuesday Event

Mrs. Leonard Vaessen, Sublette, entertained the American Legion auxiliary, Tuesday night with the assistance of Mrs. Paul Mossholder and Mrs. James Boyle.

Miss Joyce Jones, Sublette, gave a talk about her trip to Girls State which she made June 19 through 27. The Illinois Girls State was attended by 432 girls from all over Illinois chosen and sent by local Auxiliary units as a part of the program to teach Americanism to young citizens. It was held on the campus of McMurray college, Jacksonville, where the girls were housed in the college dormitories. Miss Jones outlined a typical day and told of some of the special events enjoyed by the girls. The girls are formed into cities, the cities into counties, and the counties into a total of four states. These units are taught to elect officers and hold meetings and sessions just as is done in actual government. Miss Jones was elected an alderman of her city.

Day In Springfield

She told of their day spent in Springfield when they visited the capital and also the governing bodies of our state. They went sightseeing in Springfield and then went to New Salem where they had a picnic dinner and spent the afternoon.

The next meeting of the auxiliary will be in charge of Mrs. Fred Washburn, Mrs. Leroy Wagner and Mrs. Robert Brown, Dixon; and Mrs. Florence Fielding and Mrs. Margaret Butler, Harmon.

A joint family picnic will be held Thursday with the Legion at the Amboy city park beginning at 6:30 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring their own table service, sandwiches and a dish to pass. In case of bad weather, the picnic will be held in the Legion rooms.

Teen Urged To Keep Neat

Summer is the season when the vocabularies of teen-agers and their parents most often seem to grow into separate languages. Particularly is this true when an irate mother begins evaluating the things her daughter calls casual.

Dear to a teen-ager's heart after the restrictions of the school year are the cool-if-not-beautiful hair-do, the loose, relaxing shoes, the comfortable old clothes. All these are likely to be labeled "sloppy" by a parent interested in her offspring's appearance.

Often times, the term is justified. There's no logic behind the reasoning that shoes are more comfortable when they're dirty, that hair swept of the nape of the neck must be skewered up in clumsy knots, that play-clothes must necessarily be minus buttons or trailing their hems.

The chief danger in these seasonal relaxations of standards is the possibility that permanent habits might be formed. It's easy to mistake easy dressing for dressing ease; it's difficult to slip back into meticulous ways after three months of kicked-over traces.

It's a good idea for teen-agers to remain neat and clean during the summer months. You may consider watering the front porch flowers or helping wash the family car occasions too trifling to justify any attention to your looks. At home, you may feel you lack the challenge that spurred before-school and lunch-hour primping.

Nonetheless, you owe it to your family and your own self-respect to keep yourself attractive. Besides, there's always a chance that your last-term beau may appear at your door just when you're looking your most abandoned and bedraggled.

Home sewers can save a lot of fitting time as well as possible fabric waste by accurately altering the garment pattern where necessary before cutting the material. Check your figure measurements against those listed on the pattern envelope to select the right size before buying. Then carefully lengthen, shorten, let out or take in the paper pattern to fit your own requirements.

The MATURE PARENT

Winning Love and Respect Sometimes Takes a Battle

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

At some point in parenthood—and it is a difficult one for all of us—we suddenly stop having to fight for children's consideration and respect. Quite suddenly, we've got them—and the fight is over.

From that point on, though we may have minor skirmishes now and again, they only end by bringing our children closer, by making them dearer.

That point is reached when we stop fretting about the consequences of demanding peace, dignity, joy, privacy and courtesy for ourselves. It's when we lose fear of how children may react to the idea that we have a right to be ourselves.

Is that a novel idea to you? If it is, you are very lucky in your relationships. Most of us have had to battle for love with the people who now love us best. Most of us who are loved and respected by friends, children, wives and husbands, have won love and respect in battles, in showdowns in which we risked the loss of love to defend self-respect.

A mother I know faced the problem of her adolescent son's habit of "picking" on her before his friends. She solved it by remembering a showdown experience with her husband before their marriage.

He had wanted a secret engagement. His mother, he had argued, was not well. The shock of learning that an eldest son wanted to marry might make her seriously ill.

She had said to the man she wanted to marry, "Bill, when I get engaged, I want to be engaged. I know it's a hard decision. But it's yours and you mustn't ask me to help you avoid making it."

She was sure she had lost him. She was also sure that keeping him at the cost of her own self-respect wouldn't be having him at all. She hadn't lost him. By telling him what she thought was true, she found him, and helped him to find himself, too.

WHERE FIGHTING ENDS AND JOY BEGINS
So, remembering that, my friend applied the lesson to her son one day.

She was passing his room where he and his friend Sam were busy working over an electric battery. The crumpled suit she had asked him to hang up was stuck in a chair.

When she mentioned it, her son said, "If you're so anxious to have my suit in the closet, why don't you put it there yourself without bothering us when we're busy?"

Discussing it with me later, she laughed. "I said everything on my mind," she told me. "I psychoanalyzed bullies for him. I told him what made cowards tick. I didn't know how he'd take it and I didn't care. All I cared about was putting him straight on who he had for a mother."

"What did he do I asked."

"He said, 'Gee, mother, how could I know you felt like that?'"

Then Sam came running in with a glass of water for me and I said, "Thanks—and well, you'd have thought I was June Allyson or somebody the way those two young ones fussed over me. After that, I was through having to fight young Bill for courtesy. It came naturally."

My friend had made contact with her child. She had thrown down the script of patient, long-suffering motherhood and started talking in her own character. She had reached the point where the fighting ends—and the joy begins.

Climate Hot, The Sheltons Leave State

FAIRFIELD, (AP)—Fairfield's best known family—the Sheltons—apparently has left town.

Even Mrs. Agnes Shelton, 90, mother of the boys who brought gang warfare to Southern Illinois during the prohibition era, could not be found.

Mrs. Lulu Shelton Pennington and her husband, Guy, left Memorial hospital about dawn yesterday.

Immediately efforts were made to reach Mrs. Shelton at her farm home by telephone. They were unsuccessful.

"Of course we can't say for sure she has left," Tom Mathews, editor of the Wayne County Press said.

"But it looks that way. Or she may have gone to a neighbor's where we can't reach her."

Mrs. Pennington, 43, and her husband, 37, paid their bills then left the hospital in a cab believed to have been called from some other town.

They didn't even stop by their six-room house which they offered for sale about two weeks ago.

If the departure is permanent it will be the first time in about 50 years the town has been without some member of the Shelton family.

Three of the brothers have been killed in ambush in recent years—two here and one in Peoria. Other members of the family have been wounded in shootings—including the Penningtons, who were hospitalized after a machine-gunning.

The two remaining brothers are believed to live in Indiana now.

Another sister, Hazel, is reported living in Jacksonville, Fla.

Dixonite Appeals Accident Verdict In Circuit Court

Fred W. Eisele, 608 Galena av., filed an appeal with Circuit Clerk John O. Shaulis Tuesday afternoon in an auto accident case decided against him in justice court June 18.

Eisele charged John B. Logan and Robert Logan, 119 Galena av., with negligence in an auto accident. John was driving a vehicle owned by his father, Robert.

The case went on a change of venue from the court of Police Magistrate Albert N. Kennedy to that of Justice of Peace Ruth Merrick. There Mrs. Merrick decided Eisele did not prove negligence operation of the auto driven by Logan.

She denied damages to the plaintiff. The bill for repair of the Logan auto was $136.72. Dixon, Bales and Gunner represent Eisele while Warner and Warner are attorneys for the Logans.

Had GOP Backing

The amendment was offered by Rep. Cole (R-Kans.) and had all most solid Republican backing with some help from southern Democrats.

Democratic House Leader McCormack denounced the proposal as "A middleman's profit."

Not in the interest of the farmer or the consumer."

Yesterday the administration forces had salvaged the 10 per cent beef price rollback with Republican help.

Still due for a decision—possibly today—is a proposal to curb the labor disputes powers of the Wage Stabilization Board, and to revise it so as to place the public members in the majority over labor and industry. Most unions oppose the idea.

Outcome Uncertain

Administration leaders were uncertain of the outcome of the wage board amendment. At best, they predicted a close vote either way.

With the bitter price control fight out of the way, leaders put on the heat to wind up debate by tomorrow and send the measure to conference with the senate, which passed a different bill.

The vote to keep the beef rollback left the door open to similar rollbacks of some other agricultural prices and would place no restrictions on the government's power to turn industrial prices back.

It was a last-minute win for administration Democrats and big-city Republicans over farm state members and those Republicans and Southern Democrats who want to kill rollbacks altogether.

The unrecorded vote was 207 to 123. It is subject to a latter rollcall, as are all house actions on the bill taken so far.

"The consumer won a victory

'Reasonable' Markup Must Be Allowed

Seen as Setback For Administration In Control Fight

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The House voted today to forbid price controls on meat which do not allow packers and processors a "reasonable" profit.

The vote was 160 to 144 on an unrecorded teller count.

The house action, subject to another vote later when a final rollcall is taken, upset the administration forces that yesterday won a battle in the fight to save the beef price rollback.

Assailed by administration Democrats as the "middleman" amendment and the "anti-consumer amendment", the amendment provides that:

No ceiling shall be set on products from processing of cattle and calves, lambs, sheep and hogs which does not allow for a reasonable margin of profit to each segment of industry as a group on each type of animal.

Had GOP Backing

The amendment was offered by Rep. Cole (R-Kans.) and had all most solid Republican backing with some help from southern Democrats.

Democratic House Leader McCormack denounced the proposal as "A middleman's profit."

Not in the interest of the farmer or the consumer."

Yesterday the administration forces had salvaged the 10 per cent beef price rollback with Republican help.

Still due for a decision—possibly today—is a proposal to curb the labor disputes powers of the Wage Stabilization Board, and to revise it so as to place the public members in the majority over labor and industry. Most unions oppose the idea.

Outcome Uncertain

Administration leaders were uncertain of the outcome of the wage board amendment. At best, they predicted a close vote either way.

With the bitter price control fight out of the way, leaders put on the heat to wind up debate by tomorrow and send the measure to conference with the senate, which passed a different bill.

The vote to keep the beef rollback left the door open to similar rollbacks of some other agricultural prices and would place no restrictions on the government's power to turn industrial prices back.

It was a last-minute win for administration Democrats and big-city Republicans over farm state members and those Republicans and Southern Democrats who want to kill rollbacks altogether.

The unrecorded vote was 207 to 123. It is subject to a latter rollcall, as are all house actions on the bill taken so far.

Sterling, that Sodom to the west where so-called sports fans revel in wrestling "exhibitions" and regale themselves at auto racing events where lady drivers risk their pretty necks, suddenly has become a city of righteousness.

A RECENT NOTE from the news columns of a Northern Illinois daily tells the story thusly:

"STERLING—A Sterling man who escaped from police twice after being arrested Thursday night for annoying pool players was fined $50 and costs Friday in Justice court."

We must confess that the above note brought quite a shock to one who long ago gave up on the city of Sterling as a true sports center. It was refreshing, therefore, to read the news story.

FOR THIS SHORT STORY proves that Sterling still has a chance to come back . . . sportswise, that is. The pool player belongs to one of the older and more honorable of the sporting gentries. He deserves the protection of the law and the courts that he received last week.

But one small point still is left up in the air to the discerning reader who noted this signal case of justice winning over foul play in Sterling. The question that immediately comes to mind is this: What were the pool players doing while this low fellow was annoying them?

FOR CENTURIES the pool cue has owned a place along with the sword, the dagger and the Colt revolver as one of the more formidable weapons with which a fighting (or peaceful) man might defend himself.

Pool players seldom have had to resort to help from the law to continue their game. In fact, one of our fondest childhood recollections concerns the cue artist who could silence an obnoxious critic on the backstroke and still make a fine bank shot on the follow through.

So while we must profess admiration for the Justice of the Peace who slapped the stiff fine on the cad guilty of annoying the players, we find some cause for alarm on this second count. Could it be that Sterling's pool players are getting so soft that they must about for the law each time their game is disrupted. Is this another sign of the decadence that seems to be gripping all Sterling sports?

WE HOPE NOT, but we can't help but think that the pool player of father's heyday would have dispatched this bothersome cad with no more than a flick of the cue . . . and then shouted, "Back 'em up on the other table."

Satchel Paige Back in Majors; Faces Nats for Browns Tonight

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—"They come tougher in the American league than where I've been this year, but I think I'm ready for them."

That was Leroy (Satchel) Paige talking as he prepared for his starting assignment with the St. Louis Browns.

"I've been here before and I think I can handle them," the Negro right-hander added.

Paige will face the Washington Senators tonight with Bob Porterfield his probable opponent. Game time is 8:30 p. m. (CDT).

Signs Contract

The veteran hurler signed his contract yesterday with Brownie owner Bill Veeck looking on. It was Veeck who brought Paige into the majors with the Cleveland Indians in 1948.

Paige said he expects to stay in the game as long as he can. Most predictions are that he will stay about four innings, then be lifted for a relief hurler.

That's what he has been doing with the Chicago Giants, a Negro professional team. Using that system, Paige pitched every two or three days.

Wants Wins, Crowds

Veeck hopes Satch will do as well with the Browns. And he hopes Paige will be a crowd puller. The Browns need both spectators and victories.

Paige said he is enjoying the best of health. He has had all his teeth pulled and gained 15 pounds. Also he told of a new pitch—a "beam crossfire"—to go with his fast ball.

Dixon Tennis Players to Play Clinton

Members of the Dixon Elks tennis team will travel to Clinton Thursday for a match. Those making the trip are John Kurzrock, Dick Crawford, Henry Utley, Billy Gorham, Ray Bush and Benny Sage.

Meanwhile, George Covert, tennis program director, reports that the North Side tennis courts again are in condition for play and instruction will be resumed there tonight.

Covert also said that newcomers still are welcome to the tennis instructions program.

"The idea seems to be growing that the kids can't get in on the instructions now if they didn't participate earlier," Covert said today. "This is not true. We are glad to have new players at any time and they can start their instructions with the fundamentals."

Oregon Golfer Qualifies in Danville Meet

148 Score Assures Position as Match Play Starts for 32

DANVILLE—(AP)—Jim Lamb, Oregon's golfing pride, today drew tough Gus Moreland of Peoria as his first round foe as match play started in the Illinois State Amateur golf championship tournament. Lamb Tuesday added a 75 to his opening 73 to qualify for one of the 31 match play spots with a 148 total.

Defending Champion John Hobart, of East Moline, opposed Harold Foreman, Jr., of Chicago, 1944 and 1945 champion.

In another feature attraction, medalist Frank Kovack, of Barrington, met Jack Eleveld, of Chicago, who qualified after two days of play with 147.

Kovack, in winning the medal, added an even-par 71 yesterday to his previous 68 for a 139-total. Runnerup was Eddie Conklin, of Bloomington, who had two rounds of 70 for 140.

Yesterday's finest par-busting was done by Sam Stout, Jr., of Hinsdale, and Jack Coyle, of Springfield, each of whom toured the Danville Country club course in 68's.

Hobart, the champion, was exempted from the two days of medal play. The 31 qualifiers who joined Hobart include the Wohl brothers of Prairie View, Roger, who posted 145, and Harry who bested him by a stroke—144.

Eight men were tied at the end of 36 holes of qualifying play each with 151. The four winners of the sudden death playoffs are Ray Kimpel, Urbana, and Joe Mackey, Ace Ellis and Kenny Pinnis, all of Chicago.

Sportsmen Plan Outing Thursday

Because everyone could not be reached by mail, all members of the Lee County Coon Hunters and Sportsmen's club are reminded of the special men's night program Thursday, that will open the summer events of the club.

Members and non-members are welcome to attend the festivities which include a trap shoot, a Dutch lunch and other entertainment. The trap shoot will last until dark. Activities start at 4:30 p.m. The Sportsmen's clubhouse is located on the Arthur Hoban farm, east of Dixon.

Like a Huge Pinball Machine--

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—Fight fans said they like the new boxing scoreboard tried out here last night when Harry "Kid" Matthews, leading heavyweight contender, knocked out Baby Dutch Culbertson of Los Angeles.

The board measures about six feet square and lights up to let the crowd know how the judges and referee score each round.

One fan said he liked the board because it gave him a chance to boo the judges after every round instead of having to wait until the end of the bout.

Another pointed out that it gave the fighters a chance to see how they were doing and, as a result, stepped up the fight's action.

That appeared to be the case last night when Matthews went in for the kill after he saw that the judges and referee had awarded the second round to Culbertson. The machine works something like a huge pinball game, lighting up scores of each round in colored lights.

In fact, the mechanism is a pinball machine that has been hopped up to handle the hundreds of small lights.

The gadget was invented by Michael J. Mesli, Portland. He hopes it will revolutionize scoring at boxing matches. If the reception it got here last night is any indication, it probably will.

Rain Offers Threat to Title Match

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—A threat of late evening showers hung over the bout between Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott heavyweight championship fight as the gladiators sweated out the hours for their third title clash at 9 p.m. (CDT) tonight.

This is Pittsburgh's first heavyweight title scrap and the Forbes field crowd has caught on big in the Smoky City. The only answer to the unusual stir over this road show is Charles. The 30-year-old Cincinnati Negro considers this his second home town and his appearance here in defense of his crown is a fulfillment of an old promise.

BULLETIN

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles will spot Jersey Joe Walcott 12 pounds tonight when they clash in a 15-round title fight at Forbes field. At the official weigh-in today, Charles scaled 182 pounds to Walcott's 194.

his life, is a 4 to 1 favorite in a very light betting market to whip the 37-year-old perennial challenger as decisively as he did in their other collisions in Chicago and Detroit.

The promoting McGinley-Rooney company already has over $154,000 in the till and a crowd of 20,000 is expected to contribute over $175,000 for the 15-rounder. The bout is being telecast over a 49-station hookup by the DuMont network and will be broadcast by CBS, Pittsburgh and nearby Johnstown, Pa., will be cut out of the telecast.

TV Network Biggest

In the event of a postponement, the bout will be staged tomorrow. Tom Gallery, DuMont executive, said the telecast would be put on the next day, too. Gallery said the TV network is the largest ever for a fight and he estimated that over 60,000,000 people will watch it.

A group of TV set manufacturers, eager to give home viewers a free look at the fight, and, ironically, sell more sets, outbid the theater-television people and a brewing company (Pabst) for the air rights with a lush offer of $100,000.

To Cut Fat Melon

Thus Charles and Walcott will cut another fat melon. Charles will get 40 per cent of everything and Walcott 20.

It will be Charles' ninth defense of the crown he won by whipping Walcott in Chicago, June 22, 1948.

Frank Lessner, Mooney Shoot 37's for Low

Bill Mooney and Frank Lessner warmed up for Lincoln Highway tourney play this weekend by posting 37's Tuesday to lead all shooters at the weekly Men's night at Dixon Country club.

Close behind Mooney and Lessner were Ed O'Malley and Ken Detweiler with 38's. And Utley Noble completed the list of low scorers with a 39.

Blind Bogey prizes went to Neil Bradley, Don Sweet, Dr. Stirling Stackhouse, Eldon Dunn, Dr. A. J. Tarnawski, Jack Bootsma, and Mooney.

A total of 38 players attended the dinner match.

Lessner and Mooney will play on the team the defending champion Country club sends to Princeton this weekend. Other members are Detweiler, Floyd Smith, Sr., Hank Henry and Harold Green.

White Sox Fold? Ask Yanks

Another Late Rally Chases New York Ace

By the Associated Press

The White Sox fold? Don't tell that to Casey Stengel and his New York Yankees.

They know better after what happened to them last night. They had Chicago whipped only to see Paul Richards' amazing Sox snatch the victory right out of their mitts with a three-run blast in the eighth inning and the "decider" in the tenth.

Chicago won, 4-3, after trailing 2-0 in the eighth. The triumph gave the Sox sole possession of second place in the American league, only two percentage points behind the pace-setting Boston Red Sox.

Tribe Gains Third

Cleveland climbed into a virtual third place tie with New York, defeated the Red Sox, 8-6, as Bob Feller became the first pitcher to rack up 13 triumphs. Only a game and a half separate the four clubs.

The White Sox' uphill victory emphasized Richards' pre-game state that his club will not crack up.

"We don't intend to fold," he said. "The Yankees, Red Sox and Indians will fold before we do. We'll be on top at the end."

Did Paul realize he had picked the White Sox to win the pennant? Did he want that statement to stand?

"Yes," he replied. "I want it to stand. I know it's going to get tougher but that's how I feel about my ball club. We're going to win."

Outlook Gloomy

The outlook was gloomy for

Chicago as the Sox faced Allie (No-Hit) Reynolds in the eighth trailing because of Hank Bauer's two-run homer in the seventh.

But, as on so many previous occasions, the never-say-die White Sox refused to concede. A walk, successive singles by Nellie Fox, Eddie Stewart and Minnie Minoso—and the score was tied at 2-2. Eddie Robinson grounded out and Stewart crossed the plate with the lead run.

The Yankees knotted the count at 3-3 in the ninth on a pair of walks, a double by pinch hitter Bobby Brown and Johnny Hopp's infield out.

Robinson Gets Hit

A double play stopped the White Sox in their half of the ninth. In the 10th, however, with Stubby Overmire on the hill, Stewart doubled. After Minoso was given an intentional pass, Robinson came through with a single to center, bringing Stewart home with the winning run.

A near-capacity crowd of 45,580 saw big Saul Rogovin go the distance for his sixth win. Rogovin was making his first start since his heart-breaking 17-inning loss to the Red Sox last Thursday.

Feller yielded eight hits including home runs to Lou Boudreau and pinch hitter Charley Maxwell as the Indians moved to within three percentage points of the third place Yankees.

5 Runs Unearned

The Tribe collected nine hits off three Boston pitchers and scored five unearned runs in the third. A pair of bunts by Dale Mitchell and Bob Avila, a walk to Feller, a passed ball, an error by Boudreau (playing first base) singles by Luke Easter and Al Rosen and a double by Bob Kennedy finished Mel Parnell.

Pittsburgh's last place Pirates nipped Brooklyn, 4-3, but the Dodgers retained their eight-game lead in the National league as both New York and St. Louis were beaten. The Chicago Cubs defeated the second place Giants, 7-4, and the Boston Braves shut out the third place Cardinals, 4-0. Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 9-8, but the Phils came back to win the second game, 10-0.

Lindquists in Late Rally to Defeat Oregon

OREGON — A wild, five-run rally in the final inning here Tuesday night gave the Dixon Lindquist softball team a 10 to 6 victory over Oregon Daily.

Trailing 6 to 5 as the last inning started, Dixon loaded the bases on walks from Oregon pitcher Bob Nordman after one man was retired. Hank Johnson replaced Nordman on the mound and struck out the first Dixon batter he faced, but then walked the next three Lindquist hitters.

Then John Roe took over the pitching duties and he was promptly greeted by a two-run single by Bob Moats.

Eddie Poore got credit for the Dixon victory as the second round of the Oregon league got under way. The Lindquists, with a 6-1 record during the first round, are assured a tie for the first-round championship.

Dixon Recreation Falls to Melvin's In Close Game

A closely contested game, a rarity in Amvets Junior baseball play so far this season, was registered Tuesday when Melvins defeated Dixon Recreation, 4 to 1, in Minor league action.

The day's other game followed the familiar pattern, however. Elks smothered Terminal Pontiac in the second Minor league game. And Dixon Motors rapped Barrick Cattle, 19 to 6, in the Major league.

99th Illinois State Fair Will Have Record Livestock Entry

SPRINGFIELD, (AP) — The 1951 Illinois State fair, which runs Aug. 10-19, is drawing a flood of entries for the $318,000 classes of livestock in more than 6,000 classes of competition.

Fair officials expect the entry lists will reach 100,000 by the time the 99th exposition opens.

Friday is the deadline for entering the livestock competition—traditionally the biggest agricultural event at the fair. An estimated 7,400 animals—topping last year's fair record of 7,342—will parade in judging arenas for $130,000 in cash awards.

The 10-day fair will offer contests for skills of all kinds—for persons handy at sewing, raising flowers, making handicraft items, pitching horseshoes and baking cakes.

There will be harness, automobile and motorcycle racing, horse show, political speechmaking, carnival entertainment and state productions.

Jack Benny and Rochester will be featured on the entertainment program the last two days of the fair.

For their day at the fair Aug. 15, Illinois Republicans will have U. S. Senator Everett M. Dirksen as the chief speaker.

Democrats haven't announced their plans for the following day.

Gov. Stevenson recently invited President Truman to attend the Democratic festivities, but it is uncertain whether the president will accept.

Each day of the fair has been given a special designation. They are: Children's Day, Aug. 10; Youth Day, Aug. 11; Veterans Day, Aug. 12; Ladies Day, Aug. 13; Springfield Day, Aug. 14; Republican Day, Aug. 15; Governor's (Democratic) Day, Aug. 16; Farmers Day, Aug. 17; Auto Race Day, Aug. 18; Motorcycle Race Day, Aug. 19.

Taft Says He'll Run 'If Wanted'

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft said today he will not seek the presidency unless he is convinced the Republican party "really wants me."

Ohio's senior senator refused to elaborate as he boarded a plane for Washington. Taft was a guest of former president Herbert Hoover at nearby Bohemian Grove.

George and Martha Washington had their clothes copied from a "fashion baby," a doll dressed in detail.

Warn Merchants Not to Coerce Price-Cutters

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The federal government has bluntly told the business world not to gang up on merchants who move to cut their prices.

Atty. Gen. McGrath made it clear in a statement last night that such price reductions are all to the good in the current inflation so far as the Justice department is concerned.

He said he is prepared to move promptly and vigorously with criminal prosecutions against those who seek to coerce cut-rate outlets into putting their price tags up to "agreed" minimum levels.

It was indicated that grand jury action is in the offing in some areas against this type of activity, described by the department as illegal under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The department's public warning and prospective action stems from the supreme court decision of May 21 pulling the rug out from under a principal provision of the so-called "fair trade" laws in 45 states.

Top quality leafy green hay can be worth up to $70 an acre more in feed value, says a University of Illinois dairyman.

Freighter Sinks, Save All Aboard

AALBORG, Denmark, (AP) — The Greenland freighter G. C. Andrup sank early today off Norway's south coast after a six hour fire.

The 14 Danish passengers—including five children—and the crew of 29 abandoned the 900-ton wooden ship and were landed this morning at Skagen, on the northernmost tip of Jutland, Denmark.

Capt. L. Coulet-Svendsen said that he did not know what caused a mysterious explosion that set off the fire. Ten minutes after the explosion, all aboard took to the boats.

Cowboy Actor Marries Model

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., (AP) — Cowboy Actor Kirby Grant and Fashion Model Carolyn Gills were married last night.

The couple said they will make their home here, after "a fishing trip honeymoon." They met three months ago at a Hollywood square dance.

Miss Gills, 22, was born in Terre Haute, Ind. The legal name of Grant, 39, is Kirby Grant Hoon Jr.

Calls Newspaper, Tells of Murder; Body Is Located

SAVANNAH, GA., (AP) — The phone rang in the Savannah Morning News office last night and a voice asked for the "crime reporter."

Police Reporter Al Lanier took the call and was told by the anonymous caller, "If you'll go out on the Bee road you'll find the body of a murdered man."

Lanier, Managing Editor Bill Fielder and Photographer Dennis Powers followed the caller's instructions and found the body of James Lawton Lewis, 21, a taxicab driver, after a 15-minute search. Police Capt. Leonard J. Hallman, head of the homicide squad, was summoned and took charge of the investigation.

The victim had been shot twice with a shotgun and had been dead for several days. Police could find very little in the way of clues.

Report Russia Having Trouble In Baltic Area

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Intelligence reports to the state department indicate that Russia after more than a decade of occupation is still having trouble in absorbing the Baltic states.

These are Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, which the Soviet Union swallowed up in wartime 1940. The U.S. has refused to recognize Russia's action.

The reports were rounded up in an "intelligence summary" today by the "Voice of America," state department overseas radio.

The reports were rated mostly as coming from usually reliable sources and as "probably true."

The western states have more than 5,000,000 acres of arid and semi-arid lands under irrigation.

Check Pricing Practices in New York Area

NEW YORK, (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission has started an investigation into pricing practices and advertising claims of major department stores in this city, the New York Times said today.

The newspaper said the FTC was acting as a result of a complaint filed by the Better Business Bureau, an organization financed by most large firms and many small businesses in the city.

Guerrillas Busy

TAIPEH, Formosa, (AP) — The Chinese Nationalist defense ministry said today its guerrillas broke up a Red Chinese purge trial with a time bomb. The ministry said 10 Communist officials were killed.

The bombing was June 11 at Tungku, 30 miles southeast of Canton.
